THE BAND ROOM OPENING.

One of the pleasantest affairs of the winter takes place last evening.

From eight until eleven o'clock last evening the new rooms of Marshall's military band at 234 Kansas avenue were filled by those who had accepted the nobility of the band.

The occasion was the opening of the new headquarters. The rooms consist of a large practice room, whose walls are decorated with pictures of musical organizations and members of the bands directly in front of this is the reception room, which is tastefully furnished, and it is in this room that the band's new piano is located. At the rear of the practice room are the property and cloak rooms.

The rooms last evening were prettily decorated with potted plants, which graced every window, and in one corner of the large practice room was a tea table where tea and wafers were served the guests.

Geo. M. Seward and Geo. Loscher, who had in charge the programme for the entertainment of the guests, presented a programme consisting of a concert solo by A. W. Lacey; soprano solo by Mrs. A. J. Sausman; cornet quartette by Messrs. Lacey, Klingman, Payne and Russell; horn quartette by Messrs. Hughes, Seward, Jenness and Lacey; bass solo by William Van Ness, and a soprano by Mrs. Geo. W. Parkhurst.

The entire membership of the band acted as the reception committee and Mr. Marshall stationed at the head of the stairs directed the guests into the reception room. The opening of the new rooms was a decided success in every particular and the reception one of the pleasantest of the year.

PAID IN CASH.

The Postoffice Employee Will Not Get Checks Any More.

The employees of the postoffice department were paid their January salaries yesterday in a way altogether original with Postmaster Arnold.

Each carrier, clerk and all employees, were paid in currency instead of checks, as has been the custom formerly.

Postmaster Arnold went to the Merchant bank yesterday afternoon and drew $2,000 in bills.

He says that checks are sometimes a long time getting back to the bank.
